

Ngarkal Beach Water Park Sprayers

Community Feedback

Ngarkal Beach Water Park, also known as Port Coogee Water Play, is nestled to the south-east of family-friendly Ngarkal Beach. The Water Park was constructed in 2016 and features an interactive, foot-operated splash pad with ground jet sprays. Funds have been allocated in the 2025-26 budget to upgrade the current water play area, converting it from the current recycled non potable water system to a potable water system which will have three structures with a mist spray. The City engaged with water park users and the wider community to vote from two design options for replacing the water sprayers.

How we promoted the consultation

Comment on
Cockburn webpage

Signs around Ngarkal
Beach Water Park

Flyer drop off to Ngarkal Beach
Water Park at a coast pop up

E-newsletter to all Comment on Cockburn subscribers

Who we heard from 776

visits to Comment on Cockburn

67

people provided feedback

Key findings (collated online and email responses)

Which concept design do you prefer?

- Concept design 1 Marine animal theme 42%
- Concept design 2 Pirate ship theme 58%

Concept design 1

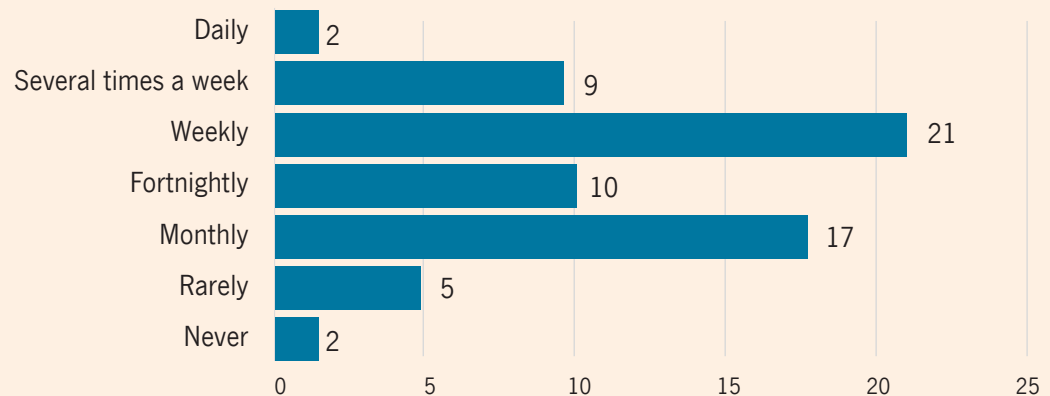

Concept design 2

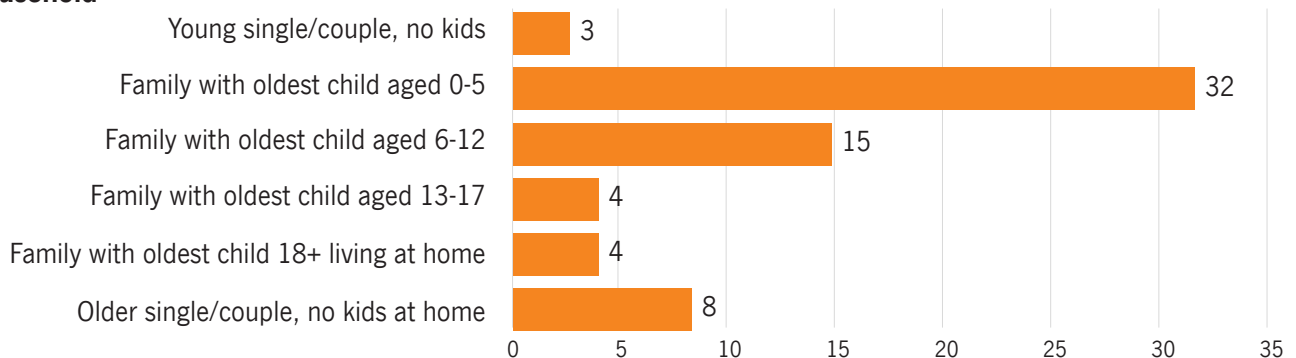

Relationship to Ngarkal Beach Water Park

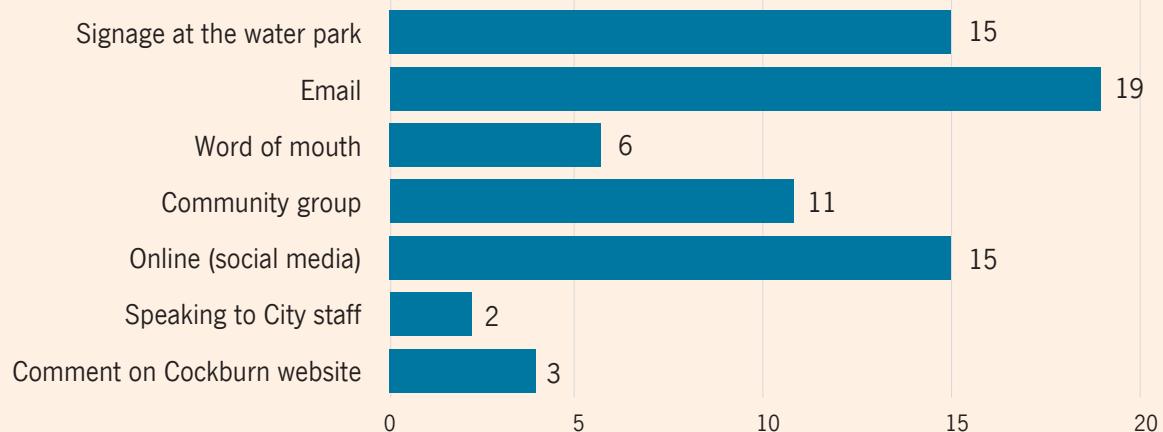

Frequency of visits to Ngarkal Beach Water Park

Household

How did you find out about this project?

Further information and next steps

Thank you to everyone who participated. The City will upgrade the water sprayers at Ngarkal Beach Water Park with concept design option two (pirate ship theme) once the park is closed for the cooler seasons.

For further information, please contact the City of Cockburn 08 9411 3444 or email comment@cockburn.wa.gov.au